THE SIAM SOCIETY UNDER FIVE REIGNS

Written by Mrs. Bonnie Davis, a Member of the Council and long-time Member of the Society, the book tells the history of the first 84 years (or 7 cycles) of the Siam Society; the problems and successes, early lectures and study trips, the difficult years of two World Wars, and the people who had a part in the Society during all those years. The history of the country also had its effect on The Siam Society and its own history. Mrs. Davis tells the Siam Society story with a keen eye for the events and local color of the contemporary Thai scene. The Siam Society has been honored by Royal Patronage since its inception, and has been helped and encouraged through all the years by the advice and support of its Royal Patrons and Vice-Patrons.

CULTURE AND ENVIRONMENT IN THAILAND

A Symposium of The Siam Society

Culture and Environment in Thailand is a timely look at how Thailand's human culture and natural environment affect each other at a time when economic and social development have placed unprecedented stresses on both. This volume is the product of a symposium sponsored by the Siam Society in Chiang Mai in August 1987, and is a pan-disciplinary approach to the environmental crisis which Thailand is facing. The contributors represent a range of academic fields including history, anthropology, botany, archaeology, linguistics, literature, economics, demography and theology. Culture and Environment in Thailand should be read both by those interested in Thailand and also by all those interested in environmental problems in tropical countries.

BUDDHADASA: A BUDDHIST THINKER FOR THE MODERN WORLD

Dr. Peter Jackson's book is indispensable for understanding how Buddhism can approach the modern world.

Buddhasa is one of the leading contemporary Buddhist thinkers of Thailand. The 82-year-old scholar-monk has undertaken a thorough reexamination of the literature and principles of Theravada Buddhism with the aim of making the religion accessible to the layman and relevant to the problems of the modern world.

Dr. Jackson has most recently been Australia ASEAN Research Fellow at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies in Singapore.

THE ARCHAEOLOGY OF PENINSULAR SIAM Collected articles from The Journal of the Siam Society Introduction by Stanley J. O'Connor

This volume contains 14 articles by W.W. Bourke, Ivor H.N. Evans, Erik Seidenfaden, A.B. Griswold and Luang Boribal Buriphand, H.G. Quaritch Wales, Alistair Lamb, J.J. Boeles, Jean Boisselier and Stanley J. O'Connor written between the years of 1905 and 1983. It comprises 170 pages of text and 56 pages of black and white illustrations.

"Like the preliminary steps in a figure drawing, the essays reprinted here roughly trace the major contours and salient features of some of the earliest communities of the peninsula which were already a part of an ancient world with its own traditions and memories . . . The strategic importance of the peninsula for early Southeast Asian history is here evident."

THE SIAM SOCIETY UNDER ROYAL PATRONAGE

The Siam Society was founded in 1904, under royal patronage, as an organization for those interested in the artistic, scientific and other cultural affairs of Thailand and neighbouring countries. The Society maintains an excellent Library which is at the disposal of Members. The Society publishes The Journal of the Siam Society and The Siam Society Newsletter in addition to occasional works of topical interest and scholarly merit. The Society sponsors a programme of lectures and artistic performances, and regularly conducts study trips to places of archaeological and cultural interest in Thailand and abroad. Activities and events of the Society are reported in the Newsletter and special circulars of the Society. The Kamthieng House, an ethnological museum on the grounds of the Society's home, provides an example of a traditional northern Thai house with artefacts of rural life and superb collections of woven materials and wood carvings. The Saengaroon House is a new addition to the Society's compound. A typical house of central Thailand, it too is open to the public.

The Natural History Section of the Siam Society, which was organized in 1913, sponsors its own programme of lectures and study trips to places of natural interest, and concerns itself with the conservation of Thai wildlife and flora. The Natural History Section publishes the annual Natural History Bulletin of the Siam Society as well as aperiodic works of scientific interest.

The Journal of the Siam Society welcomes all original articles and reviews of a scholarly nature and in conformity with the principles and objectives of the Society.

Contributed manuscripts (accepted in Thai, English, French or German) should be typed double-spaced on quarto paper (approximately 21 x 30 cm), with generous margins. The top copy should be submitted. All notes and references should be similarly typed double-spaced. References should include name of author(s), title, name and volume of periodical or relevant publication series (where applicable), date and place of publication (or nature of reference, if unpublished), and pagination (where appropriate). The Siam Society has selected The Chicago Manual of Style, 13th edition, 1982, as its stylistic guide. Page-proofs of articles and review articles are sent to authors on request only. Originals of illustrations will be returned on request. Authors of published contributions receive extra copies of the JSS free of charge. Additional copies will be supplied at cost price.

The Siam Society encourages readers to communicate comments, corrections, supplementary data or differing opinions to the Honorary Editor regarding materials which appear in the JSS. Suitably documented correspondence will be published under "Communications," bearing the writer's name.

The opinions expressed in the JSS are those of the authors and do not necessarily represent the views of the Siam Society.
