

NOTES ABOUT CONTRIBUTORS ARTICLES, NOTES, AND REVIEWS

Luigi BRESSAN

Born in Italy in 1940 and ordained priest in 1974. He was appointed archbishop in 1989. From 1971 he worked in the Vatican diplomatic service, with posts in Korea, Pakistan, and South-East Asia. From 1993 to 1999 he was Papal Nuncio to the Kingdom of Siam. Mgr Bressan is currently Archbishop of Trent in Italy.

John HAYLOCK

Is a Cambridge graduate who has lived in Baghdad, Tokyo, Cyprus, Cairo, and Tangiers, and now, in his eighties, gravitates between Hove, Chiang Mai and Japan according to the season. He has published more than six novels, numerous short stores, an autobiography, and translated two works from French. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature in 1995.

Helen JAMES

Is a visiting fellow with the Centre of International Studies, Cambridge University. She is also a visiting fellow with the Research School of Pacific Studies, Australian National University. She was previously Executive Director of the Asia Research and Development Institute and Director of the Thai/Myanmar Studies Centre, University of Canberra. She has held academic posts in Thai universities and spent fourteen years teaching in Thailand, and spent 14 years teaching and living in Thailand.

Bertil LINTNER

Is a Swedish journalist and author based in Chiang Mai. His articles have appeared in the Far Eastern Economic Review, the Wall Street Journal, Jane's Intelligence Review, Current History, and more than 80 other international publications. He is also the author of five books on Burma and one on organized crime in the Asia-Pacific region.

Stuart MUNRO-HAY

Holds a PhD from the Africa department of the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, and has lived in Thailand for many years. He is the author of many books, including Nakhon Sri Thammarat. Archaeology, History, and Legends of a Southern Thai Town, Bangkok, 2000.

Hans PENTH

Born Berlin, 1937; studied languages and history of Southeast Asia at Frankfurt-am-Main, Paris, and Lisbon; Dr.Phil. Frankfurt/M, 1964. German Academic Exchange Service, Chulalongkorn University 1964-5, Chiang Mai University, 1965-7. German Research Council scholarship to study northern manuscripts in monasteries, 1967-9. Since then lecturer and researcher on Lan Na history. Founded the Archive of Lan Na Inscriptions in 1977 and still active with the Archive at the Social Research Institute.

Marco RONCARATI

Born London 1967, studied at LSE and SOAS (PhD 2001); taught at Thammasat, Assumption and Rangsit universities for eight years. He is now based in London practicing complementary medicine. In 2002 he published a book in Thai and English entitled Home is in the Heart dealing with contemporary issues in Thai society.

Dawn F. ROONEY

An art historian specializing in Southeast Asia, Dawn Rooney is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical and the Royal Asiatic Societies in London and an advisor to the Society for Asian Art at the Asian Art Museum in San Francisco. Dr. Rooney, who has lived in Thailand for the past three decades, is the author of eight books on the culture of the region including a definitive guide to Angkor. She was a scholar in residence for one month at the Rockefeller Foundation Study Center in Bellagio, Italy in 2002 where she completed her most recent book, Thai Buddhas (Bangkok, 2003).

Michael SMITHIES

Born London, 1932, and educated at Oxford, Berkeley, and Paris. After teaching in France, California, and Gibraltar, he joined the British Council, serving in Thailand, Cambodia, and Indonesia. He has also worked in universities in Hong Kong, Papua New Guinea, and Singapore. He retired from the United Nations in Bangkok in 1992 and has since written about Siamese history. A former Hon. Editor of JSS, he is a Fellow of the Royal Asiatic Society, a Chevalier de l'Ordre des Palmes Académiques, and an Honorary Member of the Siam Society.

David SMYTH

Is senior lecturer in Thai at the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London. His published works include Teach Yourself Thai (1995, revised 2003), Thai: an essential grammar (2002), and Colloquial Cambodian (1995). He has also translated a number of Thai novels and short stories into English, including Siburapha's Behind the Painting (1990), K. Surangkhanang's The Prostitute (1994) and Chart Kortbjiti's No Way Out (2003).

Susan TALBOT

Recently completed her PhD in anthropology at the University of Otago in New Zealand. Her thesis examined the transition from the Iron Age to Angkor in northeast Thailand. She now lives in London and is currently working on a project financed by the Evans Fund of the University of Cambridge, concerning the small Angkorean hospital chapel and resthouse sites of northeast Thailand.

Karl E. WEBER

graduated from Heidelberg University, Germany, in ethnology (M.A., 1965) and sociology (Ph.D., 1966). Formerly with the South Asia Institute, Heidelberg University, he was professor at the Asian Institute of Technology, Pathum Thani, Thailand, 1978-2002. His work in Asia over more than 40 years includes research in countries of South and Southeast Asia, notably in Bangladesh, Thailand, Nepal, and Pakistan.

David K. WYATT

Is the John Stambaugh Professor of History Emeritus, of Cornell University. He recently retired. His most recent books are Thailand: A Short History (2nd ed., 2003), Siam in Mind (2002), Reading Thai Murals (2004), and an edition of G. J. Younghusband's travels to Keng Tung (forthcoming).

Stephen B. YOUNG

Is the Global Executive Director of the Caux Round Table, an international network of senior business leaders. He graduated valedictorian of the 1963 class at International School, Bangkok, when his father Kenneth T. Young was American Ambassador to Thailand. In July 1966 Mr Young discovered the Bronze Age site of Ban Chiang by tripping over a tree root.