

CONTENTS

Editorial	123
Recent events	125
Commentary:
TYSON R. ROBERTS, Killing the Mekong: China's Fluvicidal Hydropower-cum-Navigation Development Scheme	143
Research articles:
IAN G. BAIRD, BOUNPHENG PHYLAVANH, BOUNTHONG VONGSENE-SOUK AND KHAM-SOUK XAIYAMANIVONG, The Biology, Ecology, and Conservation of the Smallscale Croaker Boesemania microlepis (Bleeker 1858–59) in the Mainstream Mekong River, Southern Laos	161
KANTAMAHT BOONVANNO, Physical Effects on Butterfly Diversity at Ton Nga Chang Wildlife Sanctuary, Southern Thailand	177
TYSON R. ROBERTS, On the River of No Returns: Thailand's Pak Mun Dam and Its Fish Ladder	189
CATHERINE KLEIER, LISA AINSWORTH AND PHILIP RUNDEL, Sunlight Foraging in Two Tropical Southeast Asian Pioneer Tree Species: Macaranga denticulata and Mallotus paniculatus	231
ROBERT W. SITES, TIANQI WANG, SURAKRAI PERMKAM AND MICHAEL D. HUBBARD, The Mayfly Genera (Ephemeroptera) of Southern Thailand	243
ZEB HOGAN, NGOR PENG BUN AND NICK VAN ZALINGE, Status and Conservation of Two Endangered Fish Species, the Mekong Giant Catfish Pangasianodon gigas and the Giant Barb Catlocarpio siamensis , in Cambodia's Tale Sap River	269
SAOWAPA ANGSUPANICH, Colonization of Macro-benthic Fauna Associated with Mangrove Plantation in Abandoned Shrimp Ponds and Newly-Formed Mudflat in Pak Poon Estuary, Nakhon Si Thammarat, Thailand	283
PHILIP W. RUNDEL, MARK PATTERSON, KANSRI BOONPRAGOB AND SANTI WATTHANA, Photosynthetic Capacity in Thai Conifers	295
Notes:
PHILIP ROUND AND JITTANAT WISESJINDA, The Second Record of Band-bellied Crake Porzana paykullii for Thailand	305
Reviews	307
Recent Publications	309
Errata	311

Cover photo: The large migratory catfish, Pangasianodon hypophthalmus, is often captured in the Tonle Sap River, Cambodia. This one was caught in a bagnet under the full moon in December, 2001. See article on page 269 by Hogan et al.

